

HEALTH SERVICES FOR CHILDREN & YOUTH

The District of Columbia Department of Health (DOH) recognizes the importance of keeping our children and youth healthy and strong. Throughout the summer, DOH conducts various health education and outreach programs for District children and adolescents. DOH also provides health screenings, immunizations and many other comprehensive health services.

IMMUNIZATION CLINICS

Our clinics provide free immunizations to eligible children and adults through special walk-in evening clinics and community-supported events. The Immunization Program also conducts educational workshops, immunization medical records assessments, and communicable disease outbreak control investigations.

BLOOD LEAD POISONING

The Lead Program screens children for increased blood lead levels and monitors children with high lead blood levels.

HEALTHY SUMMER ACTIVITIES

The Department of Health events calendar provides information about a host of local events for District of Columbia residents and businesses. Call today to learn about healthy and safe activities for your children.

MATERNAL AND FAMILY HEALTH

Call for information about the services, objectives, and priorities of the Maternal and Family Health Administration. Information is available about dental services, eye care, the Washington Free Clinic, and other organizations that provide services for women and children.
